ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention discloses an apparatus and method for reducing frequency pulling. Further, the invention provides amplitude modulation techniques to eliminate spurious signals and injection locking of the VCO to the output transmitted carrier. The architecture includes at least one synthesizer, a plurality of frequency dividers, an output VCO, a low pass filter, a mixer, a pretransmission filter and an amplifier connected in a manner to generate an output frequency which is non-harmonically related to the synthesizer VCO and to maintain the magnitude of the output frequency at, preferably, exactly 1.5 times higher than the VCO frequency.
